The Tar Wars program was developed by the American Academy of Family Physicians. It is presented annually by LCHD in every public and parochial school in the county. This year over 400 fifth graders participated.

Students pictured are simulating toxins being exhaled (by popping balloons) such as tar, carbon monoxide, and nicotine. The exercise gives the students education on toxins in tobacco products and on smoking related illnesses like COPD and emphysema.
Lafayette County Health Dept. announces our state winners of the Tar Wars Poster contest. Tar Wars is a tobacco free education program from the American Academy of Family Physicians. It was presented by the Lafayette County Health Department to all Lafayette Co. 5th grade students. Posters were created by students reinforcing a positive message of being tobacco free and living a healthy lifestyle. Our 2nd place state winner is Lucas Waterworth from Wellington-Napoleon and our 3rd place state winner is Kameron Dankenbring from Waverly. All of the top 3 winning posters from each school can be seen in the upcoming 2018 Tar Wars calendar, created by the LCUSD. Thank you to all the 5th grade students for being an inspiration for future generations.
